So far Küche has worked with Nigerian, Saint Lucian, Cameroonian, Syrian, Eritrean, Iraqi, Kenyan, Pakistani, Algerian, Palestinian, Libyan, Japanese, Moroccan, Singaporean, Romanian, Polish, Scottish, Irish, Italian, Peruvian, Indonesian, Indian, Ethiopian, Chinese, Iranian, Sudanese and Somalian cooks.

'I loved the multicultural aspects of the event. Some fresh perspectives and great talks. I enjoyed the friendly atmosphere! This event was a golden opportunity to meet people and cultures that I hardly knew before.'
Attendee

'Küche are delicious makers of joy! Their food is amazing, the idea is genius and anybody in Glasgow who is not using them for their catering should seriously look at their procurement policies. This is exactly the kind of refugee agency and integration which should be at the heart of cultural life.' Professor Alison Phipps, UNESCO Chair in Refugee Integration through Languages and the Arts

'Küche provides work opportunities for us, allowing other people to try our different cuisines. Working with you is flexible and makes me feel comfortable and supported.'
Syrian cook Saffanna

'Küche has helped me have a good experience of this city and given me an opportunity to share my traditional food.'
Iraqi cook Dhuha
